

Carnoustie Church Building Project

As reported in the September edition of Contact, a great deal of work has been going on by the appointed architect along with other professionals. The new project team has also been meeting, trying to put together a plan of action to take the project forward but they have been waiting for results of surveys and also an idea of costs to make the building ready for the internal work to proceed. Some of these costs are now available along with an idea of what repairs and improvements are urgent or not so urgent so we are almost ready to look at applying for external funding to take this project to the next stage. Before the team can go ahead, congregational support and approval is necessary as is presbytery's agreement along with the General Trustees of the Church of Scotland. With this in mind, it has been decided that a meeting of the congregation should take place as soon as possible and the date agreed is Sunday 16th December after morning service. It is hoped that as many of our members as possible will attend that meeting to find out what the plans are and how best we are to proceed.

So, please note the date: Sunday 16th December, the time: After morning service, around 12 noon
the place? : In our beautiful church

Please remember, if you are not there, you cannot take part in the decision making or any vote that takes place.

It is up to you as a member of Carnoustie Church, to support what the Kirk Session and others are trying to do to make our church a pleasant place to worship as well as inviting for others to use on a regular basis. We also would love to extend our mission to spread the Word to others and improving our base for worship will hopefully help in this endeavour.
