Work is underway on a new website for Carnoustie: Trinity

News from Magazine Convener

At one time the summer months were considered to be a quieter time for Ministers. Looking at the events featured on the front page of this issue of the magazine, speaking to Annette and Mike and hearing their reports to Kirk Session makes it clear there is no such thing as a quiet summer these days.

This is the issue of the magazine which provides dates for the various Church groups starting after their summer break so get your calendars, diaries and for those of you who have mastered new technology your phones, ipads primed.

All the Elders Districts have been revised following the introduction of a Congregational Roll for Carnoustie Trinity Church and Elders have changed Districts. It has therefore been decided to put the name of your new Elder at the top of the front cover along with a contact number for your Elder.

In the last issue of the magazine (May) I mentioned that information, to enable former members of Barry and Carnoustie who would like to get their magazine electronically, would be announced. The announcement has been slightly delayed but from the next issue (November) those who would like to move to e-mail delivery of the magazine should for the immediate future send an e-mail to secretarypanbride@hotmail.co.uk giving their name, postal address, e-mail address, and their permission for their e-mail address to be retained on the Congregational Roll. If any former member of Carnoustie Panbride would like to change to delivery by e-mail they should also send the same information. This information will be passed to the Rollkeeper in good time for the change to be made for the November magazine.

I hope you enjoy reading this copy of Carnoustie Trinity Magazine. A page by page guide to the contents is below this article.

Musings from the Manses

Recently, I have been trying to wean myself off Facebook. I am so aware of how it can affect your mental health. I don't do Instagram but read a report recently that in an effort to curb the comparisons and hurt feelings associated with attaching popularity to certain content, Instagram tried suppressing 'likes.'

One expert tells us that using social media activates the brain's reward centre by releasing 'dopamine' a 'feel good chemical' linked to pleasurable activities.

These platforms are designed to be addictive and are associated with anxiety, depression, and even physical ailments.

I can't be the only one who checks back once I have posted something on Facebook to see how many 'likes' it has - these little 'thumbs-up symbols of affirmation' can affect our mood. That's definitely not healthy.

The 'like' is fairly new, designed by Justin Rosenstein in 2009. Rosenstein says the idea behind the 'like' was to help create a world in which people uplift each other rather than tear each other down. But he now laments his invention as it has enabled an unhealthy addiction to social media.

We want people to notice us, and 'like' us. We need that connection and affirmation.

But maybe the 'like' button is not the way to go.

It is such good news that God likes us, really likes us, loves us. His love goes so much deeper than a digital thumbs up. So, we can rest in that love certain of God's affirmation.

God who knows us intimately, loves us and likes us.

'Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, before you were born I set you apart.' (Jeremiah 1: 5)

Blessings
Annette

For some years now I've had various responsibilities with the central committees of the Church, and currently I'm beginning a second year with the Faith Action Programme Leadership Team (FAPLT). What used to be the Boards and Councils of the General Assembly are now all drawn together as this single body, which means we cover a huge amount of the work of the Church of Scotland. As part of this, I've also been attached to the Manse Liaison Committee, bringing together the General Trustees and FAPLT as we consider the state of our Manses and how best to support Ministers and congregations in maintaining them. The recent sharp rises in energy prices have made this task all the more urgent. The Church of Scotland has a responsibility to ensure that Manse families are able to be properly warm and dry all year. At the end of August we welcomed Rev Douglas Monahan as the new Minister at Monifieth South Angus. We look forward to developing new partnerships with the congregations there and in Arbroath as Team Ministries are established. The summer months are passed and we are now embarking on a new session together. May we seek to serve our Lord together, following His lead into the fresh challenges of our days. "God will also keep you firm to the end, so that you will be blameless on the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. God is faithful, who has called you into fellowship with his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord." – 1 Corinthians 1: 8-9

Could you help?

A member of the congregation has been in hospital but is now back home. He has a small dog but is unable to walk it at this time. Could you help him occasionally by taking the dog for a short walk - around 20 minutes. For more information please get in touch with David Taylor Telephone 853919

Finance Report

As with all organisations Carnoustie Trinity continues to face rising costs at a time when income, primarily from regular member givings, is if anything falling.

We are very grateful to those members who have reviewed their givings and have been able to increase these.

We would remind members who contribute through the plate if possible to do so via their monthly standing order as this allows us to claim much needed gift aid that we are unable to do as effectively for givings received via the plate.

Please also remember if your standing order is still with Bank of Scotland or The Royal Bank of Scotland then we would be grateful if you could move to our Virgin account. The account is in the name of Carnoustie Trinity Church of Scotland. Account number is 60573210 and the sort code is 82-11-07

Social and Fund Raising

Our thanks to everyone who supported our stall at the Gala day, whether it was donating items to be sold on the stall, or came and chatted and bought from the stall. We raised the great amount of £790.00 for the funds of Carnoustie Trinity Church.

We are holding a beetle drive on Friday the 25th October at 7pm in Panbride hall. There will be tea, coffee, juice and biscuits. The cost is by a donation. There will be prizes and hopefully much fun.

There is to be a Christmas themed Coffee Morning on Saturday 30th November 10am - 11.30am, cost is £3.00 There will be mince pies, shortbread and whole lot of home baking with a Christmas theme to it. There will be a cake and candy stall, bottle bag and parcel stall (the items must be to the value of £1.00 or more) and needles and pins with some of their great knitting and sewing items for sale. This coffee morning is in aid of funds for the upkeep of the defibrillator. Times for bringing donations and phone numbers will be given out soon.

We will be having our annual pancake coffee morning on Saturday 3rd February 2025 - more details in the next magazine.

Further ahead, we are going to hold a silent Auction in September 2025. More details to come.

Hall Lets

Barry and Newton Panbride have various sizes of Halls and rooms which are available for hire.

In the first instance contact should be made with Jan Scott 01241 852884 for information relating to the Hall at Barry church.

At Newton Panbride the first contact should be by e-mail to secretarypanbride@hotmail.co.uk

Holidays - as I remember them

Holidays can be an ideal time to escape the daily routine. It's a time to relax and enjoy a break. Holidays interrupt the flow of the year and it's a chance to pause our every day lives. It's a time to share with loved ones or a time for ourselves, to explore new places, whether that's a different country or a different coffee shop. It's a chance to do new things. When Update is available the school summer holidays will be over. July was wet this year – rain, rain and more rain, though the sun appeared towards the end of the month. Then, the seafront exploded into life.

Near us, you could hear the sound of kids playing. I like that sound. Nowadays, holidays seem more frequent. People fortunate enough to be able to do so, can go away for short breaks, long weekends at any time. Easier travel means once exotic destinations are more easily accessed. When I was wee holidays were not so frequent nor so flexible. Different cities had set summer breaks, The Aberdeen "trades" were the first two weeks in July, the "Glasgow Fair" the second half of July and the "Dundee Fortnight" was the last week in July and the first week in August. Then, in Carnoustie, the local industries and offices closed for two weeks. My dad worked at the Anderson Grice so we had the Dundee Fortnight.

We spent holidays over on the west coast, Dunoon, Rothesay and Oban being favourites. On "holiday" Mondays we went to Arbroath and walked about. After a trip round Woolies it was high tea at The Royal Hotel. Special days indeed! My memories however are based on the fact we were spending time altogether as a family and we were doing things together. Carnoustie teemed with visitors all appearing to enjoy the summer vibes. It's probably a trick of my imagination but the sun did seem to shine more. Mind you, the sea was still cold!

My pals and I filled our days easily and once we all had bikes...!!! My proper big bike was blue and white. It had a pump for the tyres, a lamp you fixed on the front and tring- a ling-a ling - a bell. It was my pride and joy and gave me a wonderful sense of freedom. I loved that bike. It seemed to go really fast. I learned many tricks but good skid stops were my greatest achievement. I needed to do them well. When we were in the woods playing on the bikes, I'd be able to join in to "hunt the enemy." If I couldn't do skid stops, I would be the prisoner tied to the tree- again. Often, practising my skid stops I went flying- right over the handlebars. In our saddlebags were our picnics. Mine never varied, jam sandwiches, digestive biscuits and a flask of tea. The sandwiches were made on a plain loaf with my Granny's jam which was made in her big, brass, jeely pan.

Our bikes were the key to our adventures. The beach was a wonderful playground but if the sea was too rough or the tide was in then there was the paddling pool – also freezing! Along from that were the swings. The swings and round-about were in constant use but the favourite was the big chute. When you reached the top of the narrow steps you thought you could see forever. Then down you went, sometimes head first, down that steep metal slope – burning hot in the sun but cold and damp in the shade. No safety mats, no adults, our own pecking order as to whose turn it was. We survived.

Sunday, though not a holiday was very much observed as a day of rest. I remember Sundays as quiet days. Now, because of how life has changed, Sundays are often busy days, car washing days, shopping days, catching up on chores days, activity days and so on. Of course, as Christians then other holidays are linked to the holy days around Christmas and Easter. It's hard to believe that it was only in 1958 that Christmas Day became a recognised public holiday in Scotland. Now, the holy days of Christmas Day, Good Friday and Easter Monday have been extended into lengthier breaks.

Holidays, whether at home or away are special times however we mark them. A time to reflect, pause, recharge and enjoy ourselves. Hope you enjoyed your holiday if you have been away or enjoy your holiday if you have still to go.

JAFFA - Jesus And Fun For All

We are looking forward to meeting with our lovely young people again when JAFFA restarts on Sunday September 8th at 11.00am in the Panbride Hall.

We would love to welcome more young folk of secondary school age to join us on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Our JAFFA meetings include group discussions about how Jesus' teachings can help us deal with the challenges and difficulties we have to face in the world today and fun activities.

Susan and Janie

News from CrossReach

I'd a lovely phone call from CrossReach this week to thank us for responding to the appeal, so I pass on their thanks to all who participated.

I have also agreed to get sample Christmas cards and the new 2025 calendar and catalogue.

Hence, when they arrive, I will be ready to take orders from any members of any of the three legacy congregations, directly or via a representative in Panbride or Barry.

I don't have a price list yet, but that should accompany the mailing.

Please think about Christmas orders soon, popular ones sell out quickly.

Deeds Matter - an Acorn Thought

How do we please a foot washing, go to dinner kind of Lord. It's how we behave, and not just what we say.

If people are not showing up at church services nowadays, on the whole, it is because they haven't seen anything that they want to emulate. They haven't seen a life that they want for themselves, a faithful life has its own kind of contagiousness.

In the words of my friend Rob Rawson, 'We need to talk the walk but we also need to walk the talk.' We do this by listening and offering practical support. Deeds matter because they show the love of God.

Lord, help us today to connect, and may we love by listening and offering practical support, and, maybe, as prompted by you Lord, ask a question or two

A Thank You

As you read this magazine I am sure you realise that all the services, fund raising and social events plus organised groups do not just happen,

A lot of thought and work goes on, behind the scenes you might say, to put in place all the planning, organising and overseeing to ensure that all goes to plan.

Many members are involved and without them Carnoustie Trinity Church would not be able to provide such a schedule as is provided - just look at page 9 and you will see what I mean.

Expressing your THANKS to all involved costs you nothing. But it will be appreciated and encouraging to all of them..

A Prayer published in the Autumn issue of Life and Work

Creator God

As the summer swells

Purple heathers smear moor and mountains

otters play in dappled pools while eagles sweep the heights

Golden red sunsets and ochre early dawns abound

While rain drops glist the fields of ripening rapeseed

Our hearts are full

In other lands

The fields are bare the sun blisters and burns

Fades and fails the crops in the fields

Scorching sunsets don't bring the rain they need

Our hearts are full

Are we to blame

Have we become blind

To the suffering earth and its struggling peoples

Seeing only self and those things that moth and mould

Will turn to dust leaving our traces to tell of earths destruction

Doomed by the very children you have in love created for love

Our hearts are full

Fill also our hands

Our eyes our ears our souls

With the passion and power

To cherish the changing seasons

to wither our wasteful ways and wonder at the beauty

Born of your constancy and care for all creation

Our hearts are full

Alive again to the possibility that life can win and life can flourish

That the otter and the eagle can roam free

That the blackbird will still sing out our dawns and dusks

That people of all colours and creeds can grow and find food

For their bodies and living water to nourish their souls.

Creating god

Hear our prayer

Amen
